

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Queen of Hearts.

Queen of Hearts, to thee I sing,
At thy feet my own I fling,
Loyal tribute freely bring,
Fair woman.

Guardian angel by my side,
In thy counsel I'll confide,
Lest my wavering footsteps slide,
Pure woman.

Man's devotion shall extend
Strength to succor and defend,
Loving shelter gladly lend,
Sweet woman.

Walls of home, thy cherished bound,
Best delights therein are found,
This is life and living crowned,
Dear woman.

In Love's kingdom throned apart,
Thou a gentle sovereign art,
Rest thee in thy husband's heart,
Bliss woman.

WIND AND WAVE.

By PROF. GEORGE EDWARD WOODBERRY.

Other selections from this author, and his biographical sketch, have already been printed in this series.

WHY wilt thou make, O Wave,
Forever in from the bay?
Dost thou seek on the beach's grave
To cast thy life away?

Why wilt thou blow, O Wind,
Forever out to sea?
Is it death thou, too, wouldst find,
O winged eternally?

I told my love unspeaking
To both in the eventide;
The wild Wind moaned and fled;
The wild Wave sobbed and died.

NEWSPAPER OFFICE IS GUTTED BY FIRE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—Shortly before midnight last night a fire started in the big clock tower on the Chronicle building as a result of the firing of bombs to announce the election results, and the flames spread with such rapidity that the entire fire apparatus of the city was summoned to the scene.

Owing to the great height of the flames it was impossible to reach them even with the combination ladders of the fire department, and the familiar superstructure of the building was speedily reduced to debris, which toppled in blazing sections to the street below.

The fire found its way down to the roof and a considerable amount of that part of the building was burned before the weak water supply succeeded in quenching it. In the tower was located the photographic department and below it, on the top floor, was the composing room, in which are located many Linotype machines. To what extent these were damaged is not known.

It is believed that the library, the most valuable of its kind in the West, has been practically destroyed. The editorial rooms and many business offices on the lower floors were deluged with water poured on the upper part of the structure. The fire caused the loss of the final preparations for the issue of the election edition and the courtesy of the use of the Examiner's plant was immediately offered to the Chronicle. The offer was accepted, and the Chronicle this morning was printed on the presses of its contemporary, its own press-room being flooded by the volume of water that poured down the elevator shafts.

It is impossible to estimate the financial loss. Several members of the staff who attempted to save some of their property were almost cut off from escape and had difficulty in getting to a place of safety.

WELL-KNOWN FARMER KILLED BY A RUNAWAY TEAM

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

SOUTH BOSTON, VA., November 8.—On last Thursday, while Mr. J. J. Dunaway was on his way home from town to his farm, he was killed by a runaway team of horses. The team, which was frightened near Catwaba, Va., and began to run. Mr. Dunaway, in the attempt to assist his father in stopping the team, in some way stumbled and fell, and the wheels of the team passed over his head, crushing his head to a jelly. He lived only a few minutes.

He was a successful farmer and a Christian worker. He was about twenty-two years of age. His family has the sympathy of the entire community. Mr. Dunaway was well known in South Boston, and well thought of by all who knew him.

ELBA DEFEATS CHATHAM.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

ELBA, VA., November 8.—The match game of base ball between the Elba and Chatham teams resulted in a glorious victory for the Elba boys. The score being 24 to 8 in favor of the Elba.

The confident air with which the Chathamites, both young and old, reached the grounds, underwent quite a change long here the game ended.

The Chatham Institute girls bedecked in blue and white appeared to be the most crest-fallen in the crowd. Seldom did they have an opportunity to yell or furl their banner, while the Elba girls had the opportunity all of the time and did not fail to avail themselves of it.

The Elba crowd weeded their way homeward highly elated over their victory.

Dr. and Mr. R. L. Ramsey left for an extended trip South.

Mr. Milliner left yesterday for Danville to attend conference.

Rev. J. R. Sturge left to-day for conference, with all claims met in full.

The many readers of The Times-Dispatch on the afternoon of Nov. 8, are delighted with having the paper on the early morning train.

HALF CENTURY DEBAUCH.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 8.—After a half-century of debauchery, Georgiana Shy, aged seventy, was instantly killed yesterday by a street car. It was necessary to remove a portion of the car floor before her body could be rescued.

Georgiana Shy enjoyed perhaps the most complete record of any woman in this section of the State. She had been arrested 253 times and had served 13 workhouse sentences. The time she spent in prison totals something over five years. In her prime Georgiana Shy was the equal of any police man, and has often given them a severe struggle. EXPENSES FOR ROOSEVELT DAY

Itemized Statement of Expenditures Made By City Government.

COMMITTEE NOW NO MORE

Brief But Spicy History of Body Has Reached An End.

The brief but spicy history of the Roosevelt committee, appointed by the City Council to arrange all details for the recent visit of the President of the United States to this city, has reached an end. The last of its work has been completed and the body, a few weeks ago, the storm-center of municipal curiosity and concern, retires to the limbo of things that were but not now.

A total of $800.61 is the city government's share of the expense of entertaining the distinguished visitor. This of course, represents but a small portion of the money actually spent on Roosevelt Day, including as it does only the expenses necessary to carry out the official programme. The extra-official celebration, calling for the closing of business houses generally, and the decoration of the city along its entire line of march and in many other sections as well, called for a much larger outlay. It is difficult to estimate what this amount was, but a rough guess might place the total at $25,000, more or less.

The record of the Roosevelt committee with its hundred members and invitations and its series of other knotty problems would make reading of a rich and variegated sort, it is said. But the book, however many it is opened, during the windy sessions behind closed doors while the famous list of the "40" was being made up and while the other features of the programme were being considered will never be fully told. At all events there were no municipal earthquakes, following the departure of the President, as many of the skilled watchers of the weather-cock had predicted there would be. Everybody seemed satisfied and, in fact, in a quiet and non-dramatic way, a bit proud of what had been done. For the committee there was nothing but praise.
